MPLA drives foes near Zaire border

LONDON (AP) — Soviet-backed forces in northern Angola are driving their Western-supported rivals toward the Zaire border, British and Yugoslav correspondents in Luanda reported today.

Dispatches to the London Financial Times and Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, reported that the Marxist Popular Movement (MPLA) had capture Ambriz, 70 miles north of Luanda; its airfield; and Ambrizete, 40 miles farther up the coast.

The London Telegraph's correspondent in Luanda, the MPLA capital, said the National Front (FNLA) still held only one town in northwest Angola, Santo Antonio do Zaire, and it was threatened.

Tanjung said the MPLA forces were 37 miles from the border.

All the information apparently came from MPLA sources in Luanda, and there was no indication that any of the correspondents were observing the fighting first-hand. But information from FNLA sources outside Angola indicated the reports from Luanda were accurate.

Santo Antonio is on the coast 80 miles north of Ambrizete, at the mouth of the Congo river, which forms the border between Angola and Zaire at that point. Angola's richest offshore oilfields are located off Santo Antonio, and the oil-rich Cabinda enclave which the MPLA already controls is to the north across a 20-mile tongue of Zaire territory.

More than 7,000 Cuban combat troops are reported spearheading the MPLA thrust, with Soviet-supplied tanks and heavy-caliber artillery. The Telegraph reported that barrages by Cuban-commanded artillery units were decisive in dislodging FNLA troops from several positions in the drive north.

The victories put the MPLA in control of nearly all northern Angola and a big strip of the central highlands running from Luanda to the Zaire border. The National Union, UNITA, which is aided by South African forces, holds southern Angola.

The British correspondents said the MPLA claimed to have captured about 2,000 FNLA troops and that many of them were regular Zairean troops. Zaire's President Joseph Mobutu is a brother-in-law of the FNLA leader, Holden Roberto, and is the FNLA's main foreign ally.

U.S. analysts eying Soviet naval buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Based on recent movements by Russian warships, U.S. intelligence sources say the Soviet Union may be preparing a further buildup of its naval strength off the West African coast within cruising distance of Angola.

The concern of U.S. analysts is sharpened by the reported presence of four Russian naval tankers, which U.S. experts say could enable the Soviet navy to sustain a larger force than is now located within a few day's cruising distance from Angola.

Meanwhile, U.S. intelligence has been tracking a 19,000-ton Sverdlov class cruiser, which has moved through the western Mediterranean toward Gibraltar in recent days, and a 5,200-ton Kashin class guided-missile destroyer which has been spotted southeast of Portugal.

The destination of these warships still is uncertain, but intelligence reports reaching the Pentagon suggest they may be sent to reinforce other Russian naval vessels already off West Africa.

The White House has expressed dismay at the growth of Soviet naval power in the area at a time when the United States is pushing for an end to outside intervention in Angola's civil war.

Within the past two weeks, Russia has sent a 7,500-ton Kresta II class guided-missile cruiser and a 3,900-ton Kotlin class guided-missile destroyer into West African waters. Previously, the Soviet Navy had positioned an amphibious ship off Angola.

None of these ships now is close to the Angolan coast, but their presence in the West African area is regarded by U.S. officials as a display of Soviet military muscle designed by Moscow to influence the outcome of the Angolan civil war in favor of the pro-Communist Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA).

Appeals court upholds Boston school ruling

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston School Committee says it will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse a lower court ruling upholding the court-ordered plan for integration of the city's public schools.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, accusing committee members of "resistance, defiance and delay," upheld every aspect of the busing program ordered last May by U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity.

School Committee Chairman John J. McDonough said he was "extremely disappointed" with the decision of the three-judge panel and said he would petition the high court within the next 90 days to hear an appeal.

"It was our feeling Judge Garrity had overstepped his bounds in the remedies he prescribed," McDonough said.

He said he thought the judge had involved himself improperly in purely educational issues that went beyond the desegregation plan.

"I feel the court of appeals walked right up to the question, looked it right in the eye and walked away," he added.

In its 51-page decision, the appeals court said, "The overriding fact of the matter is that the district court in this case had to deal with an intransigent and obstructionist school committee majority. These elected officials engaged in a pattern of resistance, defiance and delay."

McDonough countered, "This has not been an obstructionist school committee in that we followed Judge Garrity's order. But he wanted us to go beyond that. No other city has been asked to do that."

FEC to investigate Morton selection

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

President Ford's lawyer requested a meeting with the Federal Election Commission today after the panel said it will investigate the appointment of Rogers C. B. Morton as a White House adviser paid by taxpayers but assigned to at least some political duties.

Deputy White House Press Secretary John Carlson said White House counsel Philip Buchen asked for the meeting with FEC Chairman Thomas B. Curtis and commission counsel John G. Murphy "to explore their questions and concerns" over Morton's new position.

Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris filed a complaint letter with the FEC Wednesday night, calling for a "full investigation and full disclosure concerning the mixed White House House and political duties of ... Morton." Curtis also expressed concern about the appointment.

Carlson described Buchen's meeting with the FEC as "a listening session."

Asked if there was concern in the White House that Morton may be breaking the law in his new $44,600-a-year job, Carlson said: "It is safe to say the President and his staff will totally and completely obey the letter and spirit of the law just as they expect every other candidate to do."

An FEC spokesman said the complaint by Harris would not be brought up during today's commission meeting, although commissioners might be advised of it during a closed executive session.

But the spokesman said the receipt of a notarized complaint letter would automatically launch a staff investigation.

Harris' letter asking for the investigation followed comments by commission chairman Thomas Curtis, who said Wednesday that he is concerned about the propriety of the appointment. Officials say they are concerned that money spent for Morton's political activity would not be counted against Ford's campaign spending limit.

A commission spokesman said Curtis was not saying the Ford campaign is in violation of campaign law but "they're in dangerous waters. They're treading on thin ice."

Ford on Tuesday named Morton, who has served as his commerce secretary, to be a White House counselor on economic and domestic policy with "incidental duties of liaison with the President Ford Committee and the Republican National Committee."

Moore sentenced to life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Jane Moore, onetime FBI informant with radical connections, today became the second woman in a month to be sentenced to life in prison for attempting to kill President Ford.

Before she was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, Miss Moore read a lengthy statement detailing her political beliefs and what she said led her to fire a shot at President Ford on Sept. 22.

She said she was not sorry for trying to shoot the President, except that she "accomplished little than to throw away the rest of my life ... I tried because it expressed my feelings at the time and could have triggered the kind of chaos to bring the upheaval of needed change."

She described how she had become involved with the peace movement, the Black Panther party and other activist groups that forced her "to face the raw reality of the things I had spoken of before."

She said her involvement with these groups helped her to become sympathetic to "those who found their only recourse in violence."

After the sentencing, there was a loud cry of protest from Joyce Halvorsen, a friend who had previously rented the apartment Miss Moore lived in at the time of the shooting.

The matronly divorcee read her statement in a clear voice, facing the judge in the same slacks, blouse and vest she had worn in other court appearances. Judge Conti leaned his chin on his hand as he listened to her.

She was arrested Sept. 22, moments after she fired a pistol at Ford as he stepped from a downtown hotel here. The shot was deflected and the President escaped injury.

Miss Moore first pleaded innocent. But in a surprise move, she switched her plea to guilty on Dec. 16, declaring she had "wilfully and knowingly" tried to kill Ford.

Reading from a written statement, she cited alleged U.S. involvement in assassination plots against foreign leaders and said, "When any government uses assassination ... to put down dissent ... it must expect that tool to be turned back against it."

Conti accepted the plea change but expressed concern about her refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped plan the attempt.

Although prosecutors said they had no evidence of conspiracy, Conti said he was "not completely satisfied" with Miss Moore's statements and urged her to give probation officers information on the possible involvement of others. He said such a disclosure "could assist in possible mitigation of sentence."

Miss Moore is the second person convicted under the special federal law passed by Congress in the aftermath of President John F. Kennedy's assassination in 1963. The first person, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a member of the Charles Manson cult, was sentenced to life imprisonment on Dec. 17. A jury convicted her of trying to kill Ford when she pointed a gun at him Sept. 5 in Sacramento, Calif.

Gann, Wasson, Hatfield file for primary

Three more Sedalians filed Wednesday for the March 2 primary election for city councilman.

D. W. "Del" Gann, 50, 2707 West 11th, seeks the Democratic candidacy for the First Ward. Gann, a native of Marshall, has lived in Sedalia for the past 12 years. A graduate of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, with a degree in education, Gann is a salesman for the Seitz Packing Co.

Kenneth J. Wasson, 29, 1318 South Arlington, also a Democrat, filed for councilman from the Third Ward. Wasson, a native of Sedalia, owns and operates the Pettis County Ambulance Co. Wasson attended Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg.

Ray Hatfield, 49, 1503 East Fourth, filed for the Democratic candidacy from the Second Ward. Hatfield was born in Mexico, Mo., but has spent most of his life in Sedalia, he said. He is the owner and operator of the Yellow and City Cab Companies.

Administrators, board members to meet next week

Study shows vo-tech ratio at SFCC highest in state

Between 55 and 75 members of area high school boards of education, as well as administrators, are expected to meet with the State Fair Community College Board of Trustees and two state Department of Education officials next week to discuss the problems of vocational-technical education, SFCC President Fred Davis said Wednesday night.

The announcement was made following SFCC's regular monthly board meeting, at which Vice President Dr. Marvin Fielding and Dean of Vocational Education Nila Hibdon presented a 30 to 40-page "impact study" on the present status of vocational-technical education in the area.

The vocational-technical meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the college's student union. Area Supervisor Jerome Evans and B. W. Robinson, assistant commissioner in charge of vocational-technical education, will be representing the state.

The study highlights the benefits that both the area high schools and SFCC receive by high school students using SFCC vocational-technical facilities. The study was made to give the board members background information for Wednesday's meeting, Davis said.

The study pointed out that about 500 post-secondary students are enrolled in fulltime vocational-technical programs at SFCC during the day, while 257 high school students use the facilities on a part-time basis. Davis also said that SFCC had the highest percentage in the state, 61 per cent, of college students enrolled in vocational-technical programs.

Fielding said SFCC's current arrangement with area high schools, in which high school students take vocational-technical courses at SFCC, was a "good recruiting vehicle for SFCC." He said a high percentage of area high school students who had taken courses at SFCC while in high school later attended SFCC.

Davis also cited the economic advantage of the present vocational-technical arrangement. He said the area high schools, which pay the college for their students' use of the college's vocational-technical facilities, are vital to some of the college's programs, such as welding. Without the participation of the high school students, Davis said, such programs probably could not exist.

Davis also pointed out the benefit of a smooth "transition from the high school to the post-secondary school" that is gained by the current arrangement.

He said the arrangement was "the most efficient and practical way" for both high schools and SFCC to offer vocational-technical education. He added, however, that "if we have to limit enrollment," we'll have to limit high school enrollment.

Board member John Ragland asked at one point if the high schools were giving "their fair share." After Fielding replied that he thought they were financially, Ragland later restated his question, asking

Vatican reiterates stance against premarital sex

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Assailing "the unbridled exaltation of sex," the Vatican today renewed the Roman Catholic Church's condemnation of sex outside marriage but broke new ground in its treatment of homosexuals.

While condemning homosexuality as intrinsically wrong, the Vatican statement drew a distinction between "transitory" and "incurable" homosexuals. It said the latter should "be treated with understanding" and "their culpability ... judged with prudence."

The 6,000-word "Declaration on Certain Questions Concerning Sexual Ethics" was issued by the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of Faith with the approval of Pope Paul VI.

Vatican experts said the document was aimed at those persons challenging the traditional sexual morals of the church, including some priests and theologians. Among the sexual acts condemned in the statement were premarital sex and masturbation.

The president of the United States Conference of Bishops, Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati, called the document a "clear, pastoral and timely proclamation of values which are fundamental to the defense of human dignity."

The Vatican declaration asked parents and teachers to educate the young on sexual matters with prudence and with "information suited to their age." It said the mass media, the entertainment world and artists "must show tact, discretion, moderation and a true sense of values," so as not to add to "the growing permissiveness of behavior."

"The corruption of morals has increased, and one of the most serious indications of this corruption is the unbridled exaltation of sex," the declaration said.

"The sexual function has its true meaning and moral rectitude only in true marriage."

It said masturbation is a "seriously disordered act," premarital sexual relations are "contrary to Christian doctrine," and "homosexual acts are intrinsically disordered and can in no case be approved of."

But it said a distinction is drawn, "and it seems with some reason, between homosexuals whose tendency comes from a false education, from a lack of normal sexual development, from habit, from bad example, or from other similar causes, and is transitory or at least not incurable; and homosexuals who are definitely such because of some kind of innate instinct or a pathological constitution judged to be incurable."

It said this latter category of homosexuals must be treated by the Church "with understanding and sustained in the hope of overcoming their personal difficulties and their inability to fit into society. Their culpability will be judged with prudence. But no pastoral method can be employed which would give moral justification to these actions on the grounds that they would be consonant with the condition of such people."

Mismatched

By ERMA BOMBECK

A new baby-sitter once came to the house where I introduced her to the kids. She looked from one to the other, then carefully scrutinized their father and me and said, "What happened? None of you match."

I said, "I phoned 'em in." I could have. We have one of the most dissimilar, mismatched, variety-packed families you ever laid eyes on. No one has the same hair coloring, the same color of eyes or the same temperament.

One tans, one burns, one sulks, one talks you to death, one is freckled, one is bronze, one tall and lean, one chubby and close to the ground.

I don't think we ever really had a sense of humor about children until we were thrown a brown-eyed, freckled nose, redhead. Now, they're a real conversation piece.

One day at the bus stop a strange woman (not to be confused with a woman who is a stranger) approached me and said, "Is this your son?"

I nodded. "Does his father have red hair?"

I said, "No." "Did you have him late in life?"

I bristled. "Why do you ask?" "Well, she smiled, 'my husband and I were blessed with a redhead very late in life. I had a friend who said one word everytime she looked at him... 'Rust!'"

I broke up every time I thought about it. I became a woman of mystery. When carry-out boys said, "Does his father have red hair?" I'd reply huskily, "I can't remember."

I could change the color of my own hair four times a year and still look related to someone in the family.

But the greatest advantage to a family of opposites happened one Sunday in Church. My son was sitting in the pew ahead of me where I duly noted there was a chunk of hair missing where before had been bubble gum. He had grabbed his school jacket with the zipper hanging loose down the front. And when he took it off, he revealed to the entire congregation words to live by: "SAVE WATER: BATHE WITH SOMEONE YOU LOVE."

A woman next to me whispered, "Can you imagine a mother sending a boy to church like that?"

I shook my head in disgust and whispered back, "She probably phoned him in."

Loss of hair due to starvation diet

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like some advice. I'm 17 years old, 5 feet 6 and weigh 100 pounds. I'm small framed. Recently, I went on a strict starvation diet and lost 45 pounds. I went to the doctor afterward and he gave me vitamin pills. He also told me I have a mild case of anemia, so I'm taking iron pills too.

I'm eating normally now but my problem is I'm losing an awful lot of my hair. Can you please tell me if there is anything I can do for this problem and is it only temporary? I do not want to go bald. Please give me your advice.

Dear Reader — At least your story will serve as a bad example to teach others. Loss of hair from dieting is well known. Dr. Ancel Keys' group at the University of Minnesota put a group of young men on a 1600 calorie a day diet. They had been quite active and accustomed to consuming over 3000 calories a day.

They lost weight all right. But they developed personality changes, loss of sex drive and loss of hair.

Starvation diets are not a do-it-yourself program. They usually cause the person to lose muscle, not just fat. Your body's use of energy at rest is related to the pounds of muscle you have. If you lose muscles then it is harder to prevent obesity after the diet than it was before. Almost all crash diets or overly restricted diets have this effect and set the person up for continued obesity rather than correcting the basic problem.

I'm not surprised you are anemic. You need protein to form the iron containing hemoglobin, even if you are taking iron. Hopefully your present diet has enough protein in it that the iron will be helpful.

Hair is specialized skin and is mostly protein. As you recover you will likely regain all of your hair. Your total recovery from the insult to your body may take six months or more.

Meanwhile I would suggest a well balanced sensible diet and development of a good daily sensible exercise program.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What does low blood pressure indicate? Recently mine was as low as 100 over 50. I'm 75 and weigh 95 pounds, five feet short. I am on my feet and keep going but I am tired and really have to push myself to do housework.

Dear Reader — Normal low blood pressure is usually associated with a longer life span. There is far less tendency to develop fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

If the blood pressure is so low that blood won't flow normally to the brain then a person may have a tendency to faint. However, pressures of 90 over 60 or even 50 are common without causing any symptoms at all.

Usually low blood pressure is only as important as the medical problem or disease (if any) that causes it, as might occur in tuberculosis or low function of the adrenal gland or with a severe attack of low blood sugar. (NEA)

Man, 22, charged after bizarre death of wife

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Michael Lenza, 22, has been charged with capital murder following the bizarre death of his wife Tina, police reported.

Authorities said the murder warrant was served to Lenza Wednesday at the St. Louis County Jail, where he has been held since shortly after his wife was found dead in a bathtub at the Richmond Heights home of her parents on Dec. 12. Her mother, Mrs. Beverly Wolff, has been missing since that time.

Police said Mrs. Lenza's sister, Alicia Wolff, 18, told them she saw Lenza load a heavy cardboard barrel into his van and drive off from her parents' home shortly before she went into the house and found her sister's body.

Lenza was arrested the next day at the home of a friend in Columbia, Mo.

Authorities said an intensive land and air search of the area between St. Louis and Columbia has turned up no sign of the cardboard barrel or Mrs. Wolff.

If convicted on the murder charge, Lenza will face mandatory execution under Missouri's new capital murder law that became effective Sept. 28.

Operations cure impotent males

Dear Ann Landers: Millions more people read your column than read the news stories. Will you please do a tremendous favor for the men in this country who would like to enjoy sexual intercourse but are impotent?

Two Chicago hospitals have developed totally different techniques for these unfortunate males and they both work. The surgery permits men to have erections despite physical and emotional difficulties which previously had made sex impossible. One of the fantastic aspects of these two surgical procedures is that the female partner need not know that anything was done to the male. There are no tell-tale signs.

One of the patients described his cure as "so amazing it changed my entire outlook on life." He was a victim of hardening of the arteries. For ten years his affliction had deprived him of his ability to function sexually. Another patient suffered from diabetes. Hospital stays for either of these operations are brief. The cost for the simpler surgery is only $150. The more complicated operation costs approximately $500.

Please, Ann, tell your readers which two hospitals to call. And the since the names of the doctors were published in the paper it would be ethical if you identified them in your column. Thank you in behalf of — Those Who Need But Can't.

Dear Friend: I am aware of the hospitals, the names of the physicians and also the techniques developed to make intercourse possible for formerly impotent males. I feel it would be most inappropriate, however, to give such specific information in this column for a variety of reasons — not the least of which is that the hospital switchboards would light up like Christmas trees and the two physicians would be inundated with requests.

I shall print your letter and leave it to the readers who are interested to contact their own physicians and ask how to go about getting on the list. In advance, I request that my readers NOT query me further as I shall give no additional information on this subject.

Dear Ann Landers: Our youngest son married an adorable girl three months ago. We met her for the first time last New Year's Eve when he invited her here to be his date. (She lived in a distant city.)

Shortly after they were married, she called me "Mrs. R." I asked her not to be so formal. She misunderstood and said, "I'd love to call you Alice." That same evening she began to call my husband "Philip."

I would like for her to call me "Mother" the same as my other daughter-in-law. My husband says he doesn't care what she calls him, but it irritates me terribly when she addresses me by my first name.

Should I mention this to my son or should I speak to his wife about it? — Advice Wanted.

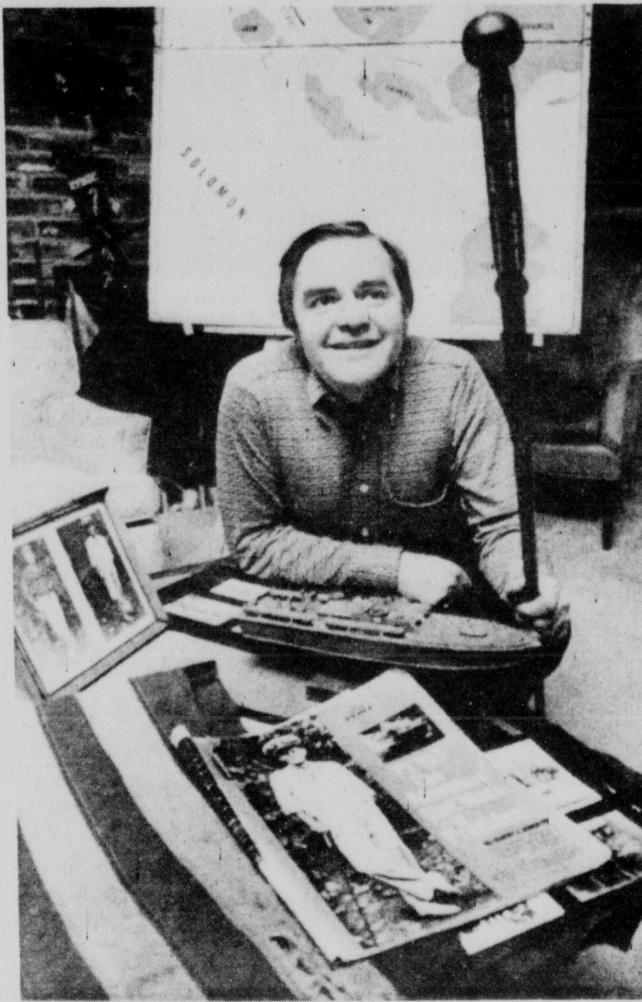

Dear A.W.: Don't mention it to her OR to him. Let her call you "Alice" and get used to it.

I loved my mother-in-law dearly but I could never call her "Mother" because that name was reserved for my own mother. Perhaps your daughter-in-law feels the same way.

You'd be happy to settle for "Alice" if you knew what some girls call their mothers-in-law.

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs — or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot — in moderation? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Judgment goes against consumer reporting firm

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld a lower court ruling awarding $40,000 in damages to James Millstone, a newspaper editor who sued a consumer reporting firm under the Fair Credit Reporting Act of 1971.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that O'Hanlon Reports, Inc. submitted a report on Millstone that was "ripe with innuendo, misstatement and slander," noting that the report took only about 30 minutes to prepare and was based on "one biased informant."

Millstone, 45, an assistant managing editor for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, sued the firm after an effort was made to cancel his automobile insurance on the basis of the O'Hanlon report which called him "a hippie type...strongly suspected of being a drug user."

"The report also claimed Millstone was 'utterly lacking in reason and judgement' and that his children were unruly."

O'Hanlon contended that the Fair Credit Reporting Act, which allows consumers to know the content of credit reports and to have challenged information investigated and corrected, is unconstitutional in its demands on the form and content of credit reports and in disclosures it requires.

Sweet Springs volunteers put in work

SWEET SPRINGS — A total of 256 volunteer hours were contributed by workers from various organizations at the Community Clothes Closet, 208 Lexington, during 1975, their year-end report says.

Organizations furnishing volunteers were Assembly of God, Baptist, Christian, Immanuel Lutheran and Presbyterian churches, R-7 PTA, Order of the Eastern Star No. 90, Fortnightly Club, Jaycee Wives and Beta Sigma Phi.

A total of 6,483 articles were given out, including items of clothing, toys and furniture, according to Mrs. Eddie Grimes, manager. The clothes closet is open from 2 to 4 p.m. every Tuesday.

Death Notices

Mrs. Mary Vinnie Denny

Mrs. Mary Vinnie Denny, 75, 502 East Fourth, died at 9 a.m. Wednesday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born Nov. 9, 1900 in Sedalia, daughter of the late James D. and Bridget O'Boyle Creegan.

She lived in Sedalia all her life. She was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Daughters of Isabella, Sedalia Circle and the church's Altar Society. She worked at Lamy Manufacturing Co. for 55 years and retired Jan. 1, 1975 as assistant treasurer.

She is survived by one daughter, Patricia Jean LaRocca, Missouri City, Texas; and five grandchildren.

The rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the McLaughlin Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the church with the Rev. William Savage officiating.

Pallbearers will be Felix Sullivan, Lawrence Mehl, Al Miles, John Pelham, Maurice Hogan and Paul Wiemholt.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Zelma Schlesselman

COLE CAMP — Mrs. Zelma Schlesselman, 86, died at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday at Bothwell Hospital, Sedalia.

She was born Sept. 3, 1889, at Mora, Mo., the daughter of the late George and Emma Feandt Staples. She was married to Charles Schlesselman on March 20, 1910 at Cole Camp. He preceded her in death on Nov. 25, 1973.

She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church here.

She is survived by one son, Cletus Schlesselman, Grand Junction, Colo.; one sister, Mrs. Gussie Leatherman, Versailles; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A prayer service will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the Fox Funeral Home here.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the church here with the Rev. A. H. Roessner officiating.

Burial will be in the Memorial Cemetery here.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 8 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

Two arraigned on felony charges

Stephen Allan Henderson, 20, Jefferson City, and Anna Pauline Jude, 18, Kansas City, were arraigned Wednesday afternoon in Magistrate Court on charges of second-degree burglary and stealing.

The two allegedly broke into the One-Hour Martinizing building, 1718 West Broadway, late Monday night, taking about $15 in cash, a watch, a tape recorder adapter and a microphone. They were arrested by police Tuesday morning.

Henderson and Miss Jude were transferred Wednesday morning from the city to the county jail where they remain in lieu of $3,500 bond each.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Democrat that Smith-Cotton High School students must pass an English proficiency exam in order to graduate. All students must take the exam, but failure to pass it means a student must take a remedial English course. After completion of the remedial course, the student is not required to take the English proficiency test again.

If the student fails the remedial course, however, he must take it again until he can pass it, since a student is required to have three units of English to graduate.

Loan payment delay to local firm is averted

A "verbal agreement" between City Counselor Robert Fritz and an attorney for the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) Wednesday night averted a possible delay in the payment of a $1 million trade adjustment loan to Town and Country Shoes Inc.

In a special City Council meeting late Wednesday afternoon, the council voted unanimously to approve a "deed of trust" by Town and Country in favor of the EDA and to "conditionally" assign Town and Country's lease to EDA so that the company could secure the loan.

Conflict arose, however, when the councilmen found that the EDA's copy of the contract did not include a stipulation giving the city the right to final approval of future tenants of the Town and Country property. In the event Town and Country should default on its loan, Economic Development Director John Hequembourg said, the EDA would assume responsibility for the property, but under the wording of the EDA contract, the city would have no right to approve tenants of the property.

"Suppose Town and Country defaults and EDA chooses to rent (the property) to a renderer or a dynamite plant," Fritz said. Under the EDA wording, the city could do nothing to stop such a move.

The Town and Country building and property, which are leased to the company by the city, were secured through a $1,050,000 industrial bond issue in April, 1968. Following Fritz's telephone conversation with the EDA attorney after the meeting, however, the council's concern seemed to be groundless, since the EDA "verbally" agreed to include a stipulation that would give the city the right to approve future tenants on the property.

The loan, which was announced almost a month ago, will be used to obtain supplies to increase merchandise output, John Lipscomb, St. Louis, company president, said at the time.

Terms for the loan stipulate the company must pay an annual interest rate of 10 3/4 per cent, compared to the prime interest rate of 7 1/4 per cent at that time. The loan is to be repaid in seven years. At no time would the city be liable if the firm defaulted on the loan, it was learned.

Hequembourg said the company's financial condition was "not good." The plant was hurt by competition from imports and was certified for the assistance from the EDA under the Trade Act of 1974. About 400 persons are presently employed by the company, down from a high of about 600 three years ago.

100 men storm building site in Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — About 100 men stormed a labor-troubled construction site today and one man was shot to death in the outburst of violence that followed, police said. Five other persons were injured.

Two trailers and three cars were overturned and windows in a dozen other cars were broken, according to security guard Luther LaBove.

The dead man was identified as Joe A. Hooper, 26, an employee of Payne & Keller Construction Co., Inc. The firm is building an ammonia plant for the Jupiter Chemical Co.

LaBove said Hooper was shot down when a group of armed men rode a heavy fork lift through the gates at the site and about 100 men poured through the gap.

One of injured, Thomas Lee Edwards, 23, of Sulphur, La., said he had been on the job about five minutes when he looked from a trailer and saw the fork lift and mob coming.

"Hooper hollered four or five times, 'They're shooting me! They're shooting me!'" Edwards said.

Gunfire erupted and the first group left; then a car passed by and started shooting at the trailer, he said.

Two men file for board of trustees slots

William Hopkins, 1610 West 13th, and John Pelham, Route 3, Thursday filed for election to six-year terms on the State Fair Community College Board of Trustees.

Two members of the board will be elected April 6.

Hopkins, who is the Central Missouri district manager for State Fair Insurance Co., has served as president of the board since it was organized nearly 10 years ago.

Hopkins said, "I feel fortunate I have been able to serve on the board since its inception. There is no doubt in my mind that the college has had one of the biggest impacts on this area of any other institution."

"I have worked hard for the college in the past," he continued, "and I look forward to doing the same in the years ahead as the college grows to meet the ever-greater needs of the district."

Although this is Pelham's first attempt to be elected to the board, he has been indirectly involved in college development as administrator of the Yeater Estate, from which funds were secured to finance the current construction of a learning resources center on the college campus.

His primary reason for filing, Pelham said, "is because of my interest in what they're doing at the college. I think the work that its vo-tech department has done with Sedalia industry is one of the greatest things that has happened. I'm just 100 per cent sold on the college."

Pelham is treasurer of the J. A. Lamy Manufacturing Co.

The deadline for filing for the election is March 6.

The other board member besides Hopkins whose term expires is Richard Banks, Cole Camp. It is not yet known whether Banks intends to run for re-election.

New business is set to open here

The Albers Feed and Farm Supply store, a division of the Carnation Co., will open for business Monday at 416 West Main, in the building formerly occupied by the Orscheln Truck Lines.

The facility will be a warehouse and wholesale-retail outlet for Carnation Albers feeds and minerals in addition to featuring livestock feeding equipment, animal health products, fencing and other livestock equipment.

In the feed business since 1895, the company has done research in the livestock, poultry and pet food areas since the turn of the century.

The new store's manager is Gene Duren, 2614 West 32nd, who has been employed by Albers for the past 10 years. He and his family moved here from Hereford, Tex.

Home rule bill passes House, sent to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A measure making it easier for counties to form charter governments was given final approval in the Missouri House today and sent to the Senate for further consideration.

The so-called "home rule" bill is the first piece of legislation to be sent from one house to another during this session, with the exception of the vetoed nursing bill sent from the Senate to the House Wednesday.

The Senate voted to override Gov. Christopher S. Bond's veto of the Nurse Practices Act, and House leaders are hopeful the same two-thirds vote can be mustered in their chamber.

The home rule measure approved today would grant the power to form charter forms of government to all of Missouri's counties. Currently that power rests only with those counties having more than 85,000 residents.

The resolution also would reduce the required percentage of petition signers from 20 to 8 per cent of those voting in the last gubernatorial election needed to place the charter government proposal on the ballot in each county.

Since the measure amends the state constitution, it would have to be approved by voters in a statewide election.

if the high schools were interested in helping SFCC "provide a better (vocational-technical) facility so we can do a better job."

Ragland was referring to a feeling by some board members that some high school boards and administrators did not adequately "drum up support" in their areas for a one-year, 60-cent operating levy increase that would have helped finance construction of a proposed vocational-technical building on the college's campus. The proposal was defeated early last month. It was the fifth time a building proposal for SFCC has been defeated.

In other business, Board Chairman William Hopkins announced that a Board of Trustees election will be held April 6. Candidates must file at least 30 days before the election date. Filing may be done in the president's office on the college campus.

At the request of the Veterans Administration, the board also voted unanimously to revise its policy regarding "minimum requirements" for academic progress. Up until now, qualified veterans could receive federal financial aid for education even if they did not attend class or failed courses. Now, minimum grade point eligibility requirements have been set up which must be met if a veteran is to receive such financial aid for his education. The requirements begin with a minimum 1.50 grade point average, which must be met after the first 12 college hours. The minimum grade point requirement rises as the number of college hours taken increases.

Students in this situation must still achieve a final cumulative grade point average of 2.0 (C) before being permitted to graduate.

This tightening of requirements is part of a nationwide program designed to eliminate funding for students who are abusing the veteran's educational benefits program.

Attorney asks for removal of ruling

A motion "to vacate judgment entry" was filed in Circuit Court Wednesday by Bill Turley, court-appointed attorney for Kendis Scroggins, 17, 308 West Pettis, charged with rape, sodomy and first-degree robbery.

Scroggins was charged along with Terrance Wilson, 18, 364 West Saline, and Gary Staten, 18, 353 West Saline, in connection with an Aug. 8 assault and robbery incident involving a rural Pettis County woman. The incident occurred about three-tenths of a mile north of Highway 50 on old Highway 50.

Turley's motion was filed after Circuit Judge Frank Meyer Friday issued a written order on various motions in the case, including the denial of a motion allegedly filed by Scroggins seeking suppression of an oral statement, pictures and fingerprints. No such motion was made by Scroggins, Turley contends.

The motion filed Wednesday by Turley maintains that Judge Meyer's ruling on the non-existent motion has "prejudiced his (Scroggins') rights with respect to possible filing of these motions at a later date by entering a ruling on those motions before such motions are filed." Turley's motion also requested a full transcript of the Jan. 9 proceedings.

Change of venue sought by man

An application for a change of venue was filed Wednesday afternoon in Circuit Court by Al Willis, 407 North Summit, charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Willis was arrested by police in late December, 1974, on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was searched and a loaded .38-caliber revolver was allegedly found on his person.

Willis is free on $2,500 bond.

Over $700 worth of tools stolen

Power and hand tools valued at $740.37 were reported stolen from the Sutherland Lumber Co., 601 East Broadway, some time Tuesday night.

Tim Smith, 1006 South Montevue, an employee at the company, told police a window in the northeast side of the building was broken to gain entry. Police said the burglars left through a north steel door in the center of the north side of the building.

In other police news, a citizens band radio valued at $200 was taken from a car owned by Charles J. Blackburn, Overland Park, Kan. Tuesday night at the Holiday Inn. Blackburn told police he parked his car on the north side of the building and discovered the radio missing the next morning.

Two more citizens band radios were stolen in Sedalia sometime Monday night, police reported Wednesday.

Donald L. Hofstetter, Warsaw, reported that his CB was stolen from his truck while it was parked at 708 East 15th, Monday night. The value of the radio was set at $140.

The second CB was taken from a car owned by Royce D. Gabbert, 2509 South Quincy, also sometime Monday night. Gabbert's car was parked at his home at the time of the theft. The radio was valued at $129. Thieves apparently gained entry to the car by forcing open a wing window.

A $625 electric typewriter was reported stolen from a car owned by Charles Moon, 219 South Gentry, while parked at his home between 10 p.m. Wednesday and 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

Police reported that a wire had apparently been used by the thieves to open the locked door of the car.

Police also reported that a tool box containing numerous tools was stolen from a truck belonging to David L. Stillfield, 656 East 12th, about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. The truck was parked at Stillfield's home at the time of the theft.

Jobless benefits are up in county

Nearly $100,000 more was paid to jobless workers last month than in November by the Sedalia office of the Employment Security Division of the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations.

Unemployment insurance benefit payments by the Sedalia office totaled $499,330, compared to $399,668 in November.

Statewide, jobless Missourians collected $31.4 million from state and federal programs during December, 19.5 per cent more than in November. Statewide payments for December were nearly triple those of December, 1974. By contrast, regular unemployment insurance initial claims were down 16.7 per cent last month, compared to December, 1974.

Approximately 40 per cent of the $31.4 million paid out by Missouri last month was federally funded.

The Clinton office paid out $271,972 to jobless workers during December, over a $66,000 increase over November.

Total payments by the Marshall office last month was $123,109, compared to $84,408 in November.

Train safety

Royce Gay, a special agent for the Missouri - Kansas - Texas Railroad, discusses train safety with a group of students at Jefferson School Wednesday. The discussion and a short movie centered on how youngsters should behave around trains for their own safety. Such sessions are being held throughout the four states that the railroad serves.

Drug program will feature area students

SWEET SPRINGS — Three Missouri Valley College students will present a program entitled "The Real Danger of Drugs" at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Jaycees Building here.

David Bell, the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp.; drug abuse prevention coordinator, will head the program, assisted by students Randy Rieckel, Chicago, Ill.; Dennis Youngmeyer, California, Mo.; and Jim Mitchell, Sedalia.

The program, which takes an unconventional approach to drug abuse prevention among youths, has been acclaimed as "effective" and "unique" by high school audiences in central Missouri. Humorous skits and real life situations enacted by the students dramatize the physical, social, legal and psychological effects of drug abuse.

Parents and their children are urged to attend.

Bingham art displayed at public library

Reproductions of ten drawings and two paintings by George Caleb Bingham, a nineteenth-century Missouri artist, are on exhibit at the Sedalia Public Library through next Wednesday.

The exhibit is sponsored by the library and the Sedalia Art Association. Sherri Schott, 616 West Sixth, art association past president, said, "We feel fortunate to get an exhibit like this here. Teachers and parents should encourage students to come look." She mentioned that last fall, Bingham's artwork was displayed at the Nelson Art Gallery, Kansas City.

The exhibit is part of an effort by the Save the Bingham Drawings Committee, formed in December of 1974 by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, to mount a public subscription campaign to purchase a scrapbook of 112 Bingham drawings from the Mercantile Library, a private St. Louis library, which must sell them. The cost of the drawings is $1,800,000. The Bingham committee, along with Gov. Bond, hope that every citizen will contribute toward the purchase of the drawings, a priceless part of Missouri's heritage.

To help bring the people of Missouri an understanding of the scope, value and content of the Bingham drawings, a volunteer speakers service with slide presentation has been organized. Mrs. Justin Caulfield Cordonnier, St. Louis, one of 50 members of the statewide committee, will speak to Sorosis at 2 p.m. Monday at the Heard Memorial Club House.

Mrs. Cordonnier, the author of the script used statewide in connection with the Bingham drawings, has extensive experience in art and art history as a student, volunteer and teacher. She is an art history graduate of Smith College and has been a docent of the St. Louis Art Museum for the past six years, giving guided lecture tours in every area of the museum's collection. Under a state grant, she is also helping to develop a nine-week course in art appreciation for 60 gifted Ladue children, the only program of its kind in the state.

Ancient art taught just in time

BINGEN, Wash. (AP) — The ancient and refined Indian art of basket weaving is being taught at the Adult Learning Center here — but only to Indians.

Some 28 students are also learning to string beads and make moccasins at college classes aimed at recapturing the nearly lost skills developed by their ancestors over thousands of years.

Most of the 28 students are from the Klickitat tribe, part of the Yakima nation. They meet three evenings each week at the center, just opened by Clark College in the old Bingen Elementary School building.

Teaching basket weaving is Elsie Thomas, 65, who learned the ancient art as a child from her parents. Ross Brewer, director of evening instruction at Clark College, says she is one of the last persons in the world with this knowledge.

She started her instruction in November by taking her pupils far into the mountains to dig cedar roots. They also gathered bear grass from an area in which their ancestors gleaned basket materials in the misty past.

Baskets woven by Indians from the Pacific Northwest employ a technique known as coiled basketry. One feature is an overlay decoration, applied as the basket is sewn.

Each basket is built up with coils of the cedar roots, while grasses and thin bark that is dyed various colors are used for the designs.

The baskets woven by Mrs. Thomas could sell for $85 to $185, says Nettie Kuneki, coordinator of the evening program.

"I doubt if we — the students — could ever get that good," she said.

Since 1965, the cost of each of the categories of the Consumer Price Index increased more than electricity. The average cost per kilowatt-hour increased only 34% for MPS residential customers. The cost of food, a category that takes a big part of the family budget, increased 82% in the last 10 years.

When we buy electricity we buy a service. And we trust this service to do the things we choose, just by flipping a switch.

Our servant, electricity, is ready for us to use all we want or as little as we need. And we only pay for what we use. Electricity takes the worry out of doing so many things.

Electricity automatically keeps the refrigerator at just the right temperature to preserve our food.

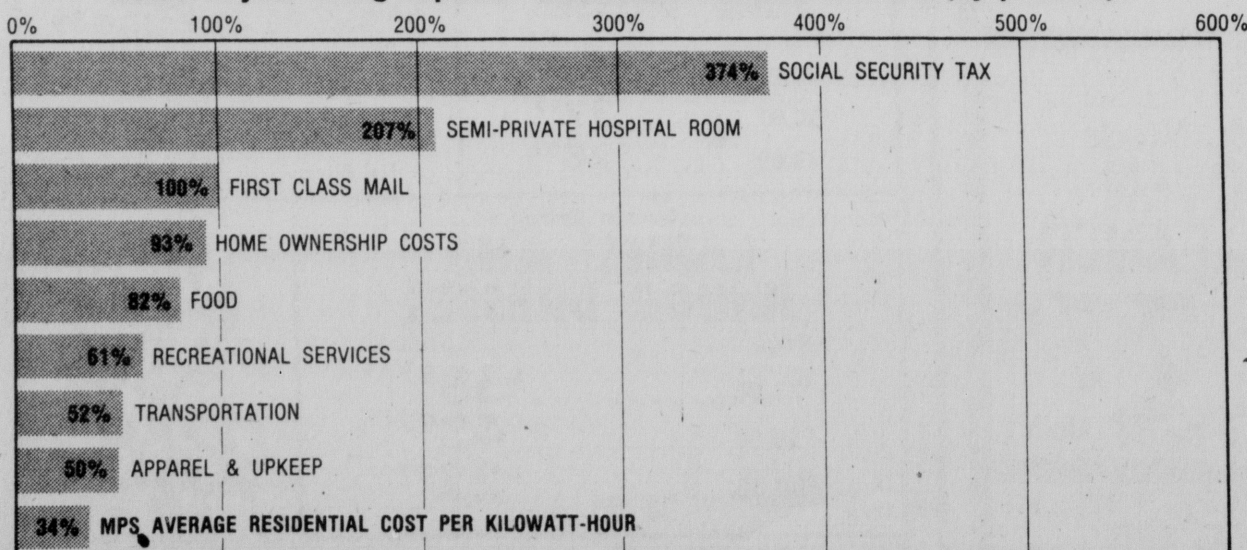

Electricity automatically cools or heats our home to just the right temperature to give us comfort.

Electricity automatically bakes our food at just the right temperature to suit our taste.

Electricity automatically washes and dries clothes, washes and dries dishes and so many other things.

And when we want security, we turn on the night light and rest calmly through the night.

Some of your living expense increases from 1965 to 1975 (by percent).

Ammonia solution saves milky glass

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with grocery stores that put coupons with products and then you have to buy five dollars worth of groceries to take advantage of the sale prices. A lot of people do not need so many things at the time and cannot afford to spend so much. — MRS. H. F.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. J.H. wanted to know how to clean her French fry basket after each use. I pour all the grease out of the pan and refrigerate it. Then fill the pan with hot water and add one-fourth cup dishwasher detergent. Put the basket in and let it boil while cleaning other things. — MRS. G.F.M.

DEAR POLLY — In response to Mrs. J.H.'s query about cleaning her wire French fry basket, I want to tell her how to make the job easier. First spray it generously with a no-stick pan spray before putting in the fries. When finished I put the basket in hot soapy water and find cleaning much easier. — M. B.

DEAR POLLY — I have a solution for those people who like to wear their shirt tails out and find they curl up at the bottom. I have a shirt with rounded tails that always turned up in a roll at the bottom, until I started to spray the bottom with spray starch, ironed it and now it stays down perfectly smooth. — M.L.L.

DEAR POLLY — I have a hint for the lady who could not remove dry blood stains. If the stain has not been permanently set by something she may have tried previously, ordinary peroxide should remove it. She may have to soak the stain several times. Fresh peroxide should "boil" the blood to the surface and then it is easily removed with a damp cloth. (Polly's note — Test first to see effect of peroxide on color and fabric.)

Empty thread spools are ideal for use in macrame work. They can be matched as to size and then varnished or painted the desired color. If one does not wish to use them full size cut in half. To easily paint the spools, space on a string and spray paint without getting messy fingers. — MARY F.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I have some tumblers that belonged to my mother-in-law that I believe to be Sandwich glass. They have become quite milky looking from being put in the dishwasher. I have tried removing this look by using oils, steel wool pads, a drying agent and alcohol but nothing helped. I hope you or one of the readers will have a suggestion. — ANN.

DEAR ANN — I suggest that you put a diluted solution of household ammonia in each glass, and let it stand a while. You might also try shaking tea leaves and vinegar in the tumblers. If they are truly old Sandwich glass I would handle them most carefully. They are a treasure to have. — POLLY.

Accident picture improves

Pettis County closed out last year with sharp drops in statistics for highway accidents, deaths and injuries, according to the Highway Patrol.

The county had 291 accidents resulting in two fatalities and injuries to 121 persons last year. That compares to 322 accidents, 11 fatalities and 143 persons injured the year before, the Patrol said.

Less encouraging were statistics for December itself. Last month, the Patrol investigated 23 accidents in the county. Those resulted in injuries to 15 persons, but no fatalities. In the same month in 1974, the Patrol said, there were 17 accidents, no fatalities and 14 persons injured in Pettis County.

Year-end statistics for other area counties are as follows:

Benton County — 226 accidents, 10 fatalities, 84 injured.

Henry County — 237 accidents, 12 fatalities, 82 injured.

Johnson County — 414 accidents, 8 fatalities, 197 injured.

Lafayette County — 364 accidents, 9 fatalities, 173 injured.

Saline County — 256 accidents, 14 fatalities, 123 injured.

Unruh arrested for drunk driving

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A drunken driving charge has been filed against State Treasurer Jesse Unruh, the California Highway Patrol says.

Police said Unruh was stopped by a patrolman at 2:15 a.m. Wednesday while he was driving erratically on Interstate 80, just across the Sacramento River from the state capitol.

injured. Cooper County — 263 accidents, 6 fatalities, 142 injured. Morgan County — 248 accidents, 6 fatalities, 154 injured. Moniteau County — 103 accidents, 6 fatalities, 154 injured.

New England patriots took a dim view of the smuggling carried on by the officers and crew of the British ship Gaspee. Farmers complained that men from the ship raided their stock and cut down fruit and walnut trees for firewood. Royal Navy authorities ignored the protests but impatient merchants in Providence took action in June, 1772. Learning one night of the Gaspee's running aground off nearby Warwick, a number of men in small boats rowed out to the ship and burned it. The World Almanac recalls.

WASHINGTON — NBC came up with a new logo a few weeks ago after hiring a research company for what is reported to have been $750,000. It turned out to be the letter "N." Much to their horror and surprise the NBC big shots discovered that the Nebraska Educational Television Network was using the same N which they had developed for less than $100. The only difference in the design was that NBC's N was red and blue while Nebraska's was all red. Everyone was laughing at NBC, but it's not very funny. Selecting a new logo for anything is a very serious business as I discovered when I decided to change the one on this column.

the eye."

I went to Cratcher & Thumb, the industrial designers, and gave them the problem. "The logo on my column seems old-fashioned and not up to date. I would like you to design a new one which would look modern and catching to Cratcher said, "We can do it, but it's not going to be cheap."

"Money is no object," I told him. "When someone changes his logo, he has to be prepared to pay for it."

Thumb said, "We may have to hire some outside help. We only have 100 industrial designers on the payroll."

"I leave it in your hands," I said. "After all, you know your business."

Four months later we had the big meeting.

It was in Cratcher & Thumb's private screening room.

The lights were dimmed and the first slide was flashed on the screen.

It was a large A superimposed over a large B.

"How do you like it?" Cratcher asked.

"It's not bad," I admitted, "but is this the image we want to give? It seems to me the B dominates the A. Don't you think both letters should be the same size?"

"Yes, we do," said Thumb. "That's why we threw that one out and came up with this one." He buzzed for the next slide.

I studied it closely. Finally I said, "The A and the B are the same size, but they seem awfully small. There is so much white space around it. Editors hate white space of any kind. They're afraid someone in advertising might try to slip a classified ad into it."

"You're very observant," said Cratcher. "Thumb and I both caught that as soon as the artist showed it to us. So we came up with this radical idea which I'm sure will knock you dead."

The next slide just showed the letter B.

"Where's the A?" I asked.

"That's just it," Thumb said. "Everyone is going to say where's the A? It will call attention to the logo and you'll double your readership."

Cratcher said, "Look at NBC. They have only an N. One-letter logos are the wave of the future."

"Well, why can't it be an A then instead of a B?"

"It can," said Thumb, buzzing for the next slide. "Cratcher and I and the entire staff all decided last week it should be an A instead of B."

The A came on the screen. "It looks just like an A," I said.

"Notice," said Thumb, "this isn't an ordinary A. The right leg is longer than the left leg."

"I think the leg leg should be slightly longer than the right one. It gives me a running start," I said.

"So did we. It's amazing how our thinking runs along the same lines. Here is a left-legged A. We tested it in 2,000 supermarkets and everyone knew it was your right away."

"Gosh, you fellows did a great job. What do I owe you?"

Thumb said, "Six hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars, including the cost of the art materials."

"Why," I said surprised, "that's $100,000 less than NBC paid for its logo."

"That's because your name started with an A," Cratcher said. "The further along in the alphabet you go, the harder it is to design a letter."

Chou was a man of mystery

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Of all the Chinese leaders I have been acquainted with, Chou En-lai was the only one it was impossible to know.

Cromley

Even in the most casual of conversations he seemed to be playing poker — or perhaps, more accurately, bridge — sizing you up, figuring the angles and percentages, using you, I repeatedly felt, for whatever purpose he had in mind. He said the things calculated to get the responses he desired.

One never knew what he really thought, only what he wanted you to think he thought at that particular time.

By contrast, you knew where the other top Communists stood in their capital Yenan in the 1940s. And exactly how they felt. Mao Tse-tung, Peng Te-hsi, Lin Piao, Chen Yi, Chu Teh, Yeh Chien-ying. You could like them, hate them, or despise them and their thoughts. But you knew what they were. Because they told you in no uncertain terms. Their bluntness made clear how they regarded you and any ideas you might have.

They were blunt. Rough. Strong. Brilliant and singleminded.

In my eight months in Yenan during World War II, the last half of that time as acting commander of the combined U. S. military-diplomatic mission to the Communist capital, I dealt daily with the men who then, and in considerable measure since have ruled mainland China. Some have gone down; others, lower in the pyramid, have come up. The ranks thinned in recent years with deaths and excommunications. But Mao and Chou, Teng and Yeh and a handful of others remained.

Western diplomats, most of whom did not know intimately Chou's background as one-time leader of strong-arm and assassination squads in Shanghai and his opportunistic flips, flops and intrigues against even his close associates within the Communist party, were fascinated by his culture, his grasp of language and diplomacy, his sweet reasonableness with words in a government of men whose language was often rough, abrasive, abusive and extremist. They came, therefore, to think of Chou as a moderate, friendly pragmatist, not caught up in the fanaticism which seemed to surround him.

To give Chou his due, for all his ruthlessness and his devious ways, he was an intellectual, a Mandarin, whose extended studies and cultured manner would make him a standout in any social or diplomatic gathering. And he has an appreciation of beauty and form in living and dress even in the caves of Yenan, which were in deep contrast to that of most of his peers in the party leadership.

He was not one who seemed to enjoy the somewhat free-wheeling regular Saturday evening barn dances in Yenan indulged in with obvious enjoyment and vigor by almost all of the other party bigwigs, including Mao.

There are those who worry about the effect of Chou's death on U. S.-Chinese relations. They see Chou as the man, on the Chinese side, who opened the door.

Now it is true that Chou was the official who handled the matter. And it is true too that even back in the Yenan days in the 1940s Chou believed the U. S. had much to offer. But then, so did Mao and a goodly chunk of the rest of the leadership. What must be remembered is that Chou could not have moved toward opening the door to the U. S. without the concurrence of the majority of China's effective leadership, including Mao.

Relations with China may change for one reason or another. But it will not be because of Chou's death. Those relationships, however, will, most certainly, become more turbulent on the surface. The blunt style of men like Tang Hsiao-ping will likely prevail. There won't be Chou's silky words. That is, there may be rough diplomatic seas ahead and strong verbal exchanges. But we'll more likely know accurately where we stand in Chinese eyes.

And in the Chinese will foster an improved relationship — though probably at arms length — so long as it suits their interests, and no longer. Friendship, or lack of it will not enter the picture.

The Missouri mule is one of the hardiest beasts known to man. His race has a record of grit, determination, stamina and ruggedness that is unsurpassed in the animal kingdom. So when it is reported that this indomitable creature is wiling in the forbidding climate of Ethiopia, that's news. Twenty per cent of the Italian army's American mules (many of them from Missouri) have given up the ghost, says the report. The survivors, it is said, have become acclimated and will "live forever." That isn't news; it's characteristic.

English competence gets new emphasis

The Board of Education took an important step Tuesday to insure that students who graduate from Smith-Cotton High School have certain minimum skills in reading and writing.

The board set up a requirement that high school students must pass an English proficiency test before being allowed to take their third English course, which is an elective. The test will be administered at the end of the 10th grade.

Students who flunk the test will be required to take another course in reading or composition, or both, in place of the normal elective course.

What the Sedalia school system is concerned about seems to be a general complaint in schools all over the nation: the ability of students to use and understand the English language is deteriorating.

This is evident in nationwide standardized test scores, which show a steady decline. It is a common complaint at colleges and universities, which are finding incoming freshmen increasingly ill-equipped to do college-level work. Central Missouri State University, in a recent report on the problem, states that the graduate deans in Missouri recently expressed serious concern over the situation, and plan to take corrective action.

Newsweek magazine, noting in a recent cover story on the subject that while the reading and writing skills of most Americans have never been remarkable, added: "What makes the illiteracy so dismaying is precisely the fact that writing ability among even the best-educated young people seems to have fallen so far so fast."

While other factors, such as television, may be partly responsible for the situation we find ourselves in, most of the blame rests squarely on the shoulders of America's misguided educational establishment. Over the years it has increasingly disregarded the principles of basic education, while chasing after every new notion and gimmick that has come down the pike.

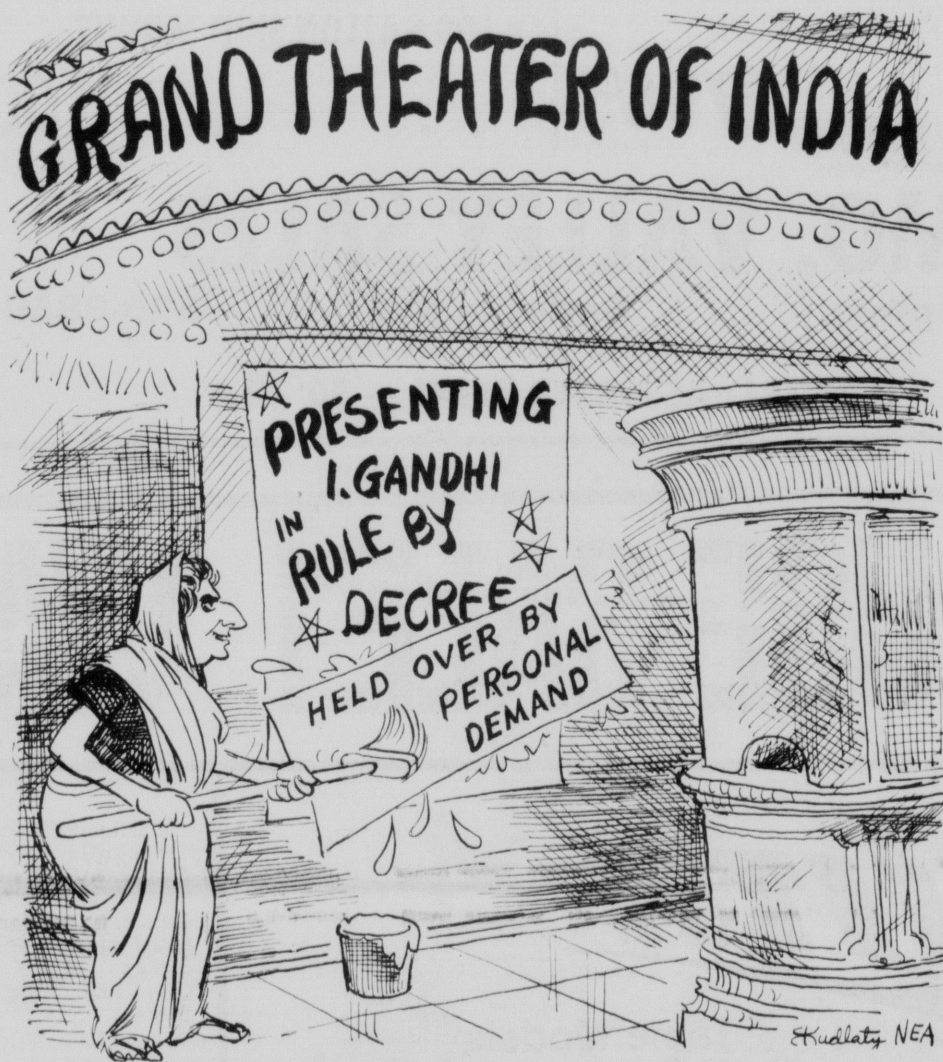

What is encouraging, however, is that the nation finally seems to be waking up to the situation, and taking the necessary steps to correct it. Local school board members and administrators are to be commended for seeing that the Sedalia system is part of this movement.

Merry-go-round

Stables of stars for the candidates

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten
WASHINGTON — The presidential candidates have started their quadrennial scramble for Hollywood stars to brighten up their campaigns.

Since the candidates are a lackluster lot, they may be more eager than usual to find some glamor to excite the voters.

Sargent Shriver, who is running behind in the popularity polls, is out front in the race for stars. He has induced more than 100 celebrities to climb aboard his stalled bandwagon, including Lauren Bacall, James Caan, Carol Channing, Cloris Leachman, Paul Newman, Mark Slade and Joanne Woodward.

Ronald Reagan, himself a former actor, has an inside track in Hollywood. He has recruited such Hollywood stalwarts as John Wayne, Jimmy Stewart and Lloyd Nolan.

Fred Harris, the populist from Oklahoma, is claiming the support of Carroll O'Connor and Dennis Weaver.

Henry "Scoop" Jackson, the Senator from Washington, has landed Bonanza's Lorne Greene, with a supporting cast of lesser luminaries.

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace has rounded up a few country and Western stars. Most of the other candidates, like Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., have been inquiring quietly how to go about lining up stars.

One of President Ford's backers also acknowledged lamely: "We don't have anyone big yet."

In contrast, his predecessor, Richard Nixon, just about had Hollywood locked up four years ago. We can now tell how he did it.

To win the favor of the movieland brass, Nixon characteristically promised special tax relief for Hollywood. As early as April 5, 1971, he met with the industry's top executives who, according to a confidential memo, "pleaded for some sort of relief." The President agreed to "take a look."

Not long afterward, the Internal Revenue Service gave the movie industry a multi-million-dollar tax break. A Nixon aide immediately began to recruit stars on the basis, as a memo puts it, of "what the President has done for the film industry."

There was also some Nixon-style arm twisting. A popular Canadian rock singer, who wanted to become a U. S. resident, was offered an immigration waiver if he would come out for Richard Nixon.

An extraordinary effort was made to bring Sammy Davis Jr. into the Nixon camp. Sammy wanted a diplomatic passport or, at least, a White House appointment. Finally, an appointment was promised to a presidential commission.

Thereafter, the Nixon campaign spent thousands of dollars to fly Davis in style wherever he would appear for Nixon.

Perhaps the most spectacular Nixon effort began with a plot to capitalize on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's celebrated power of persuasion. Ali McGraw was supposed to lure Kissinger, then a bachelor, to Hollywood to whisper pro-Nixon sentiments into the ears of the stars.

"We should ask Henry," suggested a Nixon campaign memo, "to say something like, 'It would make me very happy if you could see your way clear to help re-elect President Nixon.'"

Unfortunately for the plotters, a foreign crisis intervened, and Kissinger had to fly off to Peking. But the party was held anyway, with Pat Nixon doing the whispering.

Many of the stars, who were pressured to support Nixon, are still in a holding pattern this year. In a chat with our reporter Mike Viner, Sammy Davis summed up the prevailing attitude in Hollywood.

"I'm going to stay independent," said the singer. "I'm good friends with the Fords. But this time, I'm not backing anyone."

Dean Martin leans towards Reagan but is in no hurry to announce formally. Danny Thomas praised the courage of George Wallace but backed away from an outright endorsement. And Charlton Heston, who declared for Nixon in 1972, is doubtful as of now whether he'll endorse anyone.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The Commerce Department had planned a signing ceremony, complete with distinguished guests and champagne, to mark the culmination last month of the tedious negotiations with the Soviets over grain shipments. A few days before the ceremony, the State Department asked Commerce officials to cancel it as an expression of displeasure at Russia's involvement in Angola.

Columnist Joseph Kraft has taken exception to ex-White House aide Charles Colson's statement, which we recently quoted, that Kraft had defended Kissinger's "valiant" opposition to the bombing of North Vietnam. Kraft told us that Colson's interpretation is a "slur" and that he did not say Kissinger had "valiantly" opposed the bombing. A double-check of the Kraft column shows that he said: "Dr. Kissinger may have opposed the murder-bombing. But he certainly did not put everything he had into the fight."

Arch-conservative Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., has been raising money for Ronald Reagan. But Bauman pocketed $2,626.52 of the money, according to a voucher, "for out-of-pocket expenses."

Repeal of Blue Law wins panel approval

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislative committees Wednesday recommended lifting a ban on Sunday sales in Missouri and adopting a new ban to prohibit the use of studded snow tires in Missouri after April 15, 1977.

Another new measure to provide collective bargaining rights to nearly all public employees was also sent to the House floor Wednesday.

In other action, the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee approved a measure which would permit municipalities and counties to approve industrial revenue bonds without a vote of the people.

Also approved by a Senate committee was a pay raise for state Highway Patrol officers which grants a $175 a month across-the-board salary increase.

The new minimum wage for probationary troopers would be $12,000 under the bill.

The studded snow tire ban which passed a Senate committee was supported by patrol representatives and the Missouri Automobile Club.

The repeal of the Sunday sales ban in the House committee received its second favorable vote this week, after a technical problem nullified the first vote.

It was the first time the legislation has gained approval since the ban was instituted nearly 20 years ago.

A.L. to Seattle for '77 season

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The American League is ready to put an expansion team in Seattle for the 1977 season.

The next move is up to the National League — with San Francisco, Washington and Toronto waiting for some hint to day of what is in their baseball future.

"It's our hope that the National League will go along and take in Washington and also agree to a modified form of interleague play," American League President Lee MacPhail said Wednesday after announcing that the league had endorsed a recommendation for expansion made by the major league owners' franchise committee.

The owners' meeting continued here today, with the National League expected to vote on the expansion proposal. Washington is considered most likely to become the 13th National League city, after twice losing American League franchises.

If Toronto should be named, it would mean rejection of the Canadian city's hopes of acquiring the San Francisco Giants.

Or the league could go on record against expanding. If that should happen, said MacPhail, "It's possible we would expand on our own."

"Seattle is our immediate concern," he added. "Although no details have been worked out, our interest is in expanding to Seattle."

A multimillion-dollar lawsuit, filed by the Pacific Northwest city which lost an AL franchise in 1970, went to court this week.

It made such expansion plans expedient, the league president implied.

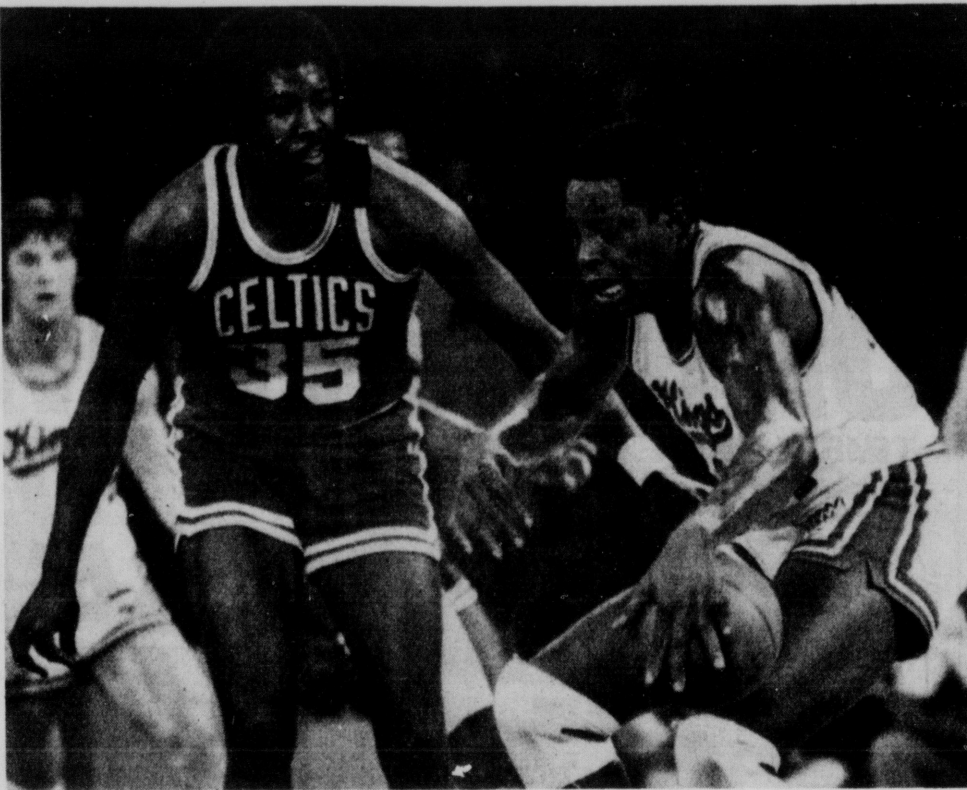

"If they're promised a team, they'll drop the suit. It's as simple as that," said one American League owner.

However, Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman had a lukewarm reaction to the American League's decision, which is subject to final action expected at a Jan. 31 league meeting.

"Until a specific offer is made with specific conditions spelled out, we will not change our position," Uhlman said in regard to the lawsuit.

Commissioner Bud Kuhn indicated Wednesday that no spring training camp will open until a settlement with the Players Association is reached on a new basic agreement. An owners' committee was scheduled to meet with association Executive Director Marvin Miller and player reps, seeking changes in baseball's reserve clause, later today in nearby Scottsdale.

The National League owners heard a presentation Wednesday from the Toronto group willing to pay at least $13 million for the Giants, and the legal problems which would be involved in moving them.

Lacey hangs on

Six-foot-ten Kansas City Kings' center Sam Lacey has trouble, but manages to hang on to the ball in the first period of Wednesday night's NBA action in Kemper Arena, despite getting pressure from Boston's Paul Silas (35). The Kings pulled the game out of the fire in the late seconds, winning, 106-101.

Wedman ices Kings' 106-101 victory over Boston Celtics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Boston rallied repeatedly but Scott Wedman foiled the Celtics by sinking a 15-foot jumper with 29 seconds to give Kansas City a 106-101 victory in National Basketball Association play Wednesday night.

Kurt Oppelt will carry Olympic torch

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A Penn State University professor will return to his native Austria to be the first person to receive the Olympic torch when it arrives on Austrian soil from Athens, Greece, Jan. 30.

Kurt Oppelt, an instructor in Penn State's College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, will be a guest of honor throughout the Winter Games in commemoration of his winning the pair figure skating championship in the 1956 Austrian, European, World and Olympic competition.

Oppelt's former skating partner, Sissy Schwarz, will accompany the Olympic torch on the plane from Athens and hand it to Oppelt at the airport in Vienna. Oppelt will turn the torch over to a relay member for the start of its journey from Vienna to Innsbruck for the opening ceremonies of XII Olympic Winter Games on Feb. 4.

"One team would take over for a while and then the other," said Kings Coach Phil Johnson in an analysis of the game that saw Boston battle back from 14 and 11-point deficits.

"Fortunately they never got any big leads," Johnson said. The Celtics dropped behind 31-19 after one quarter then came back with 12 straight points to tie it. The Kings then spurred with 14 consecutive markers and finished the half with a 53-48 bulge.

Jo Jo White, who finished with 24 points, canned 14 in the third quarter to pull Boston to a 79-79 tie going into the final stanza.

The teams swapped the lead four times in the fourth quarter and the Kings grabbed the lead for good when Sam Lacey hit a free throw with two minutes and four seconds left.

Nate Archibald had 29 points and 10 assists for the Kings while Lacey had 19 rebounds. Wedman chipped in 25 points.

Boston center Dave Cowens fouled out to allow Lacey to go to the free throw line with 2:04 left.

"I was really relieved to see Cowens foul out when he did," said Johnson. "That gave us a lift."

"We tried to isolate on him when he had five fouls, but that took us out of our game."

Writers to honor Red Sox Tiant

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pitcher Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox will be honored as the World Series hero at the fifth annual Kansas City Baseball Awards Dinner Jan. 25.

Tiant's selection was announced today by the sponsoring Kansas City chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association and the Royal Lancers, a Kansas City Royals booster club.

The sponsors said Tiant would not be able to attend the dinner because of his heavy banquet schedule. Teammate Rick Wise was to accept the award for Tiant.

Tiant was cited for his two complete-game victories in the World Series.

Southeast, Sugar Bowl agree on pact for next 3 seasons

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The possibility of determining an undisputed national college football champion in a bowl game has diminished further with the disclosure that the Southeastern Conference will send its champion to the Sugar Bowl for the next three years.

At the same time, Cliff Kern, president of the Sugar Bowl, says the game might switch back in the near future from New Year's Eve to New Year's Day.

The SEC on Wednesday became the sixth conference to sign up with a bowl despite suggestions earlier this month by Alabama Coach Bear Bryant that all bowl tieups should be eliminated.

"I wish all the bowls were open, too," said SEC Commissioner Boyd McWhorter. "But given the consideration that they aren't, we had to go with what we have. There was a fear we might have been locked out of a bowl some year."

While the Sugar Bowl now gets the SEC champion, the Big Ten and Pacific-8 winners meet in the Rose Bowl, the Big Eight king is committed to the Orange Bowl for three more years, the Southwest Conference champ goes to the Cotton Bowl and the Western Athletic Conference winner hosts the Fiesta Bowl.

In the final Associated Press 1975 rankings, Oklahoma of the Big Eight was No. 1, followed by Arizona State of the WAC, Alabama of the SEC, Ohio State of the Big Ten, UCLA of the Pac-8 and Texas of the SWC.

The only likely meetings between the No. 1-2 teams in a

K.C. Royals Caravan here on Feb. 5

Although the complete itinerary has not been worked out, the Kansas City Royals Caravan will be in Sedalia Feb. 5 for stops at an assembly at Sacred Heart High School and a noon luncheon at weekly Kiwanis meeting at the Bothwell Hotel.

The assembly at Sacred Heart is scheduled for 10:15 a.m.

Other stops in central-Missouri Feb. 5 include an afternoon appearance at the Whiteman Air Force Base and in Warrensburg that evening for a coaches clinic.

Still to be announced for the tour here are the players and coaches who will accompany Royals' officials.

future bowl are the Rose Bowl or one of the other conference champs meeting a highly ranked independent team in another bowl.

Another consideration in the SEC-Sugar Bowl marriage was a yearly guarantee in the neighborhood of $600,000 to the conference.

"I can't deny the guaranteed return for our appearance was a major concern," said Dr. Harry Philpott, president of Auburn University and chairman of a committee which studied the Sugar Bowl tieup.

Bryant said the tieup "has got to be good for the conference, although it's not particularly good for Alabama."

"I'm for anything that's good for the conference, but we've won it five years in a row and I don't think our players would enjoy playing in five straight Sugar Bowls."

"The reason I said all bowl tieups should be eliminated was to try to get something started toward a true national championship playoff."

Such a proposal is on the agenda during the NCAA convention here this week. It is not given much chance of passage.

Four post victories in recreation games

Schlitz Beer, the Stags, Western Auto and Michelob Beer posted victories in men's recreation league basketball action Wednesday night.

Schlitz, led by Scott Purchase's 19 points, defeated the Rejects, 92-63. Jeff Barnes scored 17 for the losers.

The Stags outlasted Wilson and Co., 61-51. David Logan scored 16 for the Stags, while game honors went to Gary Ballard of Wilson and Co.

Michelob routed the Bears, 87-35. Kelly Harding poured in 28 points for Michelob to lead all scorers in the game. Jim Marcum tossed in 13 for the Bears.

Lee Jefferies scored 22 for Western Auto, and Mike Swain netted 16 for State Fair Restaurant in an 88-59 Western Auto win.

Evert female athlete of year

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert, who last year fit the mold of the "boring rich" by setting money-winning records with her two-fisted backhand and baseline stance, started off 1976 with a victory, a resolution to make her tennis game more exciting and yet another trophy — as The Associated Press 1975 Female Athlete of the Year.

Miss Evert, who won the AP honor in 1974, repeated after winning a record $362,227 in prize money and capturing 14 tournaments, including the U.S. Open, the French and Italian opens and the U.S. Clay Court championship.

The 21-year-old tennis star ran away with the AP title announced today, collecting 246 votes in a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Sandra Palmer, the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, was runner-up with 64 votes. Anne Marie Moser-Proell, who won a record fifth consecutive World Cup in international skiing before retiring, was third with 15 votes.

Billie Jean King, a two-time AP Athlete who was Miss Evert's nemesis until she retired from singles competition following her victory at Wimbledon, was fourth with six votes, and Olympic gymnast Olga Korbut, the 1972 winner, was fifth with five votes.

Others receiving votes were volleyball player Mary Jo Peppier and softball pitcher Joan Joyce, three each, and golfer Carol Mann and swimmer Kornelia Ender, one apiece.

During her record-setting year, Miss Evert was quoted as saying that her baseline game got so monotonous that "sometimes I even bore myself." So this year, she resolved to relieve the routine. After winning her season debut in the L'Espresso World Series of Women's Tennis last Sunday in Austin, Tex., she admitted that her new style was more fun.

"I'm taking more chances," she said. "I'm rushing the net more — it's more exciting."

Miss Evert joins Boston outfielder Fred Lynn as the AP's outstanding athletes for 1975. Lynn, who became the first American League Rookie of the Year to win the Most Valuable Player Award, was named the AP Male Athlete of the Year on Tuesday. Both will be honored in Tampa, Fla., on Feb. 27 at the Tampa Sports Club's annual awards banquet.

Tampa was selected as the site because that is where the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Memorial Trophy is on permanent display. The large trophy, symbolic of the AP Female Athlete of the Year, was donated by George Zaharias in honor of his late wife, who was selected by the AP as the outstanding woman athlete an unprecedented six times for her feats in track and golf.

Mo. has first female agent

Jill Cooper of Mexico, Mo., is the state's first woman conservation law enforcement officer.

One of 17 new agents assigned last month, Ms. Cooper is a graduate of the University of Missouri with a bachelor's degree in physical education. She has been assigned to the Jackson-Platte and Clay County areas.

Before Miss Cooper was assigned, there were fears that she would be likely to meet belligerent violators because she is a woman.

"It hasn't worked that way so far," she says. "If anything, people I've checked have been nicer to me than they might be to a man."

Her job has already taken her as far north as the Iowa line where she helped other agents in an airplane-ground patrol for illegal hunters.

The road to becoming a conservation agent is not an easy one. Each class may have 500 applicants compared to an eventual graduating total of 12 to 20.

The Bass Caster's Association has released its 1976 tournament schedule. One of the four national tournaments will be at Stockton Lake on Sept. 10-11.

If you think professional bass fishing is a nickel and dime, backwoods sport, consider the purse at this year's first tournament March 26 and 27 at Saratoga, Ark. It's $47,000.

Entry fees at each of the tournaments are $200.

State foresters are breathing a sigh of relief — at least until next year. No Gypsy moths were found in any of the 3,000 traps last year.

One Gypsy moth was found in a trap in Southwest Missouri in 1974. The traps are usually a paper cup or similar device smeared with a sticky substance and a sex attractant.

The insects severely damage tree foliage and have basically been restricted to a number of eastern states.

Other forest pests were also at a low level last year, in contrast to some big infestations in past years.

Smith-Cotton tankers split double-dual action

COLUMBIA — Sedalia Smith-Cotton pushed its season's boys swimming record to 2-4 with a split here Wednesday in double-dual competition against Hickman and Missouri Military Academy of Mexico.

Although the Tigers lost to Hickman, 59-24, Tiger head coach Earl Cooper wasn't disheartened completely in the setback.

"We went to Columbia halfway expecting to be drowned in their wake, but came out in pretty decent shape," he said. "We had a couple of big wins ... overall most of the boys bettered their individual times, which raised some enthusiasm," Cooper added.

The big wins Cooper was talking about in the Hickman competition were a 1-2 finish by Jim Paul and Alan Braverman in the 50-yard freestyle, and Jack Beaudette's victory in the diving competition. Beaudette made his interscholastic debut in the diving event.

In the competition against MMA, the Tigers won six events and finished 1-2 in four of those six for an easy 50-30 victory over the cadets.

Missouri Military visits Smith-Cotton Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. for a dual meet at the Sedalia Junior High School pool.

Liquori enters Mellrose Games

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Marty Liquori will compete in the Wamaker Mile at the 69th annual Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden here Jan. 30.

Scouts skid longest in history of team

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings, led by defenseman Rick LaPointe, scored more goals Wednesday night than they have in any other game this season to breeze by the Kansas City Scouts, 8-3.

"We were jumping tonight," Detroit Coach Alex Delvecchio said following the victory.

"We have no excuses for our loss," Scout Coach Bep Guidolin said. "We have so many new players it takes awhile to adjust to skating styles."

Guidolin picked up one of his newest players just before the start of Wednesday night's game. The Red Wings traded right-winger Phil Roberto to the Scouts in exchange for right-winger Buster Harvey.

LaPointe scored two goals and assisted on two others by Nick Libett and Terry Harper, all in the second period.

Danny Maloney, who also scored twice, ignited the Red Wings scoring effort with a short-handed goal early in the opening period. Michel Bergeron and Bill Hogaboam also scored in the first period. Maloney scored again in the third.

Bryan Watson of Detroit was banished for five minutes after nicking the Scouts' Wilf Paiement in the lip with a high stick. Paiement received nine stitches in the lip, but returned to score one goal and assist on another by Chuck Arnason.

The victory moved Detroit within three points of third-place Pittsburgh in the National Hockey League's Norris Division. It was the seventh loss in a row for Kansas City, the team's longest losing streak in its two-year expansion history.

Rogers expected to be named

DALLAS (AP) — Darryl Rogers of San Jose State is expected to be named the next Southern Methodist head football coach this weekend, if he can agree on contract terms.

SMU officials were in contact with Rogers in St. Louis, Mo., at the NCAA convention and Rogers was offered the job.

Dr. James Zumbeke, SMU president, said he had no comment on whether Rogers was the choice to replace the resigned Dave Smith but added: "We are getting very close to making an offer. We still have a few ends to tie off, and we want to be sure the individual's wife has a chance to visit Dallas."

Tournament play resumes at Stover

STOVER — Upset winner Green Ridge will try for two in a row tonight in the 8:30 p.m. game of the 20th-annual Stover Invitational Basketball Tournament. The Tigers, who pulled out a 47-42 win over second-seeded Lincoln in Tuesday's opening-round action, take on Tusculumbia, which notched a mild upset over Ottaville.

Ottaville was seeded third; Tusculumbia sixth.

The 7 p.m. opener tonight here is a losers' bracket clash between Lincoln and Ottaville. The winner of that game will move into Saturday nights consolation game.

The Green Ridge-Tusculumbia winner moves into the tourney finals against the winner of the Stover-Smithton game, which will be played Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Northwest and Cole Camp square off Friday at 7 p.m.

Saturday night's action will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the consolation finals. The third-place game is set for 8 p.m. with the championship tipoff set for 9:30 p.m.

USES UP TO 64% LESS ENERGY!

Zenith's 100% Solid-State Chassis featuring the Zenith Patented Power Sentry Voltage Regulating System uses up to 64% less energy than previous Zenith giant-screen all-tube sets. Zenith's energy-saving 100% solid-state chassis with its Power Sentry system of voltage regulation needs only 130 watts of power ... less than two 75-watt light bulbs. Many color sets, four or more years old, use about as much power as five 75-watt light bulbs.

North-South vulnerable

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When you use the Jacoby transfer bid you don't have any normal use for responses of three diamonds, hearts or spades to a notrump opening. We recommend that the three-heart and spade response show good hands with bad suits, but where you don't mind being declarer. South had a perfect hand for a three-spade response. North raised to four spades and South took over with Blackwood. When North showed all four kings by his six-club call (the bid shows zero or four and there was no way for North to have 16 high card points without at least one king) South bid the grand slam in spades. He might just as well have bid seven notrump for the extra 10 points since he could count to 13 tricks if the spade suit ran. Suppose North had held just three spades to the ace-king. He might not have raised to four spades, but if he did have that holding, the queen of spades would still be likely to drop.

ASK THE JACOBY'S

A Vermont reader asks if one-bid hands should be conceded and not played. The answer is that some rubber bridge players in order to save time concede undoubted one-level contracts but this is their own procedure. It has nothing to do with the laws of bridge which provide that all contracts must be played.

Chairmen disagree with Bond's budget

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Both House and Senate appropriation committee chairmen disagree with Gov. Christopher S. Bond's proposed $2.6 billion budget, and at least one said he would attempt to reduce the governor's total figure.

Bond addressed a joint session of the General Assembly Wednesday with what he called a "carefully balanced budget."

Bond recommended general tax expenditures for the year beginning in July of $1.2 billion. He said there is no tax increase needed for the state now or in the foreseeable future under his proposed spending plan.

Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, disagreed with Bond's assessment of his own budget, maintaining the total figure was too high for the state's financially hardpressed monetary resources.

"The state cannot afford such an elaborate budget," Merrell, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said.

He said he will urge his committee to cut back on the total expenditure Bond suggested, and would propose a shift in budgetary priorities.

Merrell said the re-establishment of legislative priorities would be made to "fit within a framework that citizens of the state of Missouri can still afford."

House Appropriations Chairman James "Jay" Russell of Florissant refused to comment at length on the budget message, but said he thought Bond's speech was "politically put."

Speaker Pro Tem Richard DeCoster said the House might better spend its time, rather than listening to Bond's speech, by working and reading the proposals in the papers later.
